OTHER BUSINESS

New Construction Residential Sales – 2012 Update Summary

Mr. Sitlick gave a PowerPoint presentation summarizing New Construction Residential Sales in Morris County for 2012. He presented data showing the total number of new homes sold between 2003 and 2012 and how those homes varied by type, reporting a rise in the number of attached and multi-family housing units sold and a decline over the period of new single family detached homes sold. He outlined where most new residential construction sales occurred in 2012 and the median prices for new construction sales between 2003 and 2012. Mr. Sitlick also described how the median size of different types of units changed over the 2003-2012 period.

Mr. Sitlick then discussed residential rental projects approved by the Morris County Planning Board, stating that 1,423 rental units were approved during 2012 and the first eight months of 2013, and that this number of rental units was greater than the total number of units approved during the nine years between 2003 and 2011. He then summarized new construction residential sales conditions for 2012, indicating that, while activity was up, it was still far below the level of activity seen a decade earlier. He noted a doubling of new single family attached unit sales, the overall lower median prices for new construction sales for 2012 and the modest change in housing sizes across all unit types. Mr. Sitlick reported that almost one third of new single family detached sales in 2012 involved lots where a previous unit was torn down and replaced by the new unit. He stated that this activity offered an opportunity for new construction, even in areas where there was limited undeveloped land. The Board commended Mr. Sitlick on his report.
